The 1954 Log

FREEHOLD HIGH SCHOOL

FREEHOLD NEW JERSEY

Dedicated To . . .

MRS. LILLIAN LAULER WILBUR

Principal

1929-1954

"For her monumental contribution toward a quarter century of accomplishment and progress in Freehold High School."

For nearly half a century, the "Log" has been summarizing in picture and story the life of Freehold High School. During its long and illustrious history, it has more than once walked off with top honors in its class. This year, it will have the distinction of being the last yearbook produced by a class of Freehold High School, as we know it.

It is fitting that the last class to graduate from Freehold High School should accomplish so much and cover itself with such glory. A girl governor has come from among its ranks. Seniors comprised most of the stellar football team, which went undefeated to win the Shore Conference Championship. Through the efforts of several seniors, "The Spirit" has been printed for the first time in over twenty years. Also during this, the last year of Freehold High School's long reign, three undergraduates distinguishd themselves by winning the State Interscholastic Livestock Judging Contest.

Thus excelling to the end, Freehold High School passes out of existence. Yet it will ever be a past reality to those who are its graduates, and to us, the members of the class of '54, who are the last to leave its halls of learning.

It is further appropriate that the historical theme of our book should be presented through the emblematic Father Colonial and the seal of our school ring which depicts the monument commemorating the Battle of Monmouth.

Father Colonial, the embodiment of the influence of our colonial forefathers upon our lives, has, through the faculty and other sources, given us a measure of their courage, tenacity, and strength of purpose, and a set of ideals which we hope will remain with us throughout life.

So the yearbook staff presents this 1954 "Log" with the hope that it may adequately interpret and carry on the edifying spirit of our founding fathers.

Are you convinced that the welfare of all the citizens of our free world depends upon an expanding participation of all of us in civic affairs?

Do you believe that you have an intelligent knowledge of the personalities, ideals, and achievements of those who have built this nation?

Do you have a strong devotion to the ideals we cherish as a nation?

Do you recognize the importance of the spiritual values of life in our democracy?

Do you know how to think intelligently when confronted with the conflicting opinions of honest people?

Are you alert to the insidious propaganda dinned in your ears by the forces of tyranny? Do you weigh their absurd claims against those ideals of freedom and justice which are your heritage? Do you see a future community, nation, and world far superior to any which man has ever known?

Are you willing to work and work to insure the basic ideals and values of American life to future citizens?

If you can answer each of these questions in a ringing affirmative, you will be ready to be admitted to the society of free people—you will be prepared to participate intelligently in the civic affars of your respective communites.

This year's "Log" published by the class of 1954 is the final publication ending all publications of the Freehold High School as such. The Colonial theme running throughout the "Log" is a fitting climax to all the publications covering the 79 continuous years of the high school's existence. June 30, 1954, marks the official closing date, when the new Freehold Regional High School opens its doors on July 1, 1954.

Graduating as a member of the old Freehold High School should give you a feeling of pride for its past accomplishments. Your school can and does take its place with any secondary school of its size in the country. It became a charter member of the Commission on Secondary Schools in 1927, and it has never been taken from the accredited list. A year and a half ago, at the last evaluation, it was again retained on the list of accredited schools until 1957 without any academic reservations. During these twenty-six years of accreditation alone it has graduated 3,120 students, an average of 35% of them going on to higher institutions of learning. They have all found places of respect and usefulness in the various communities into which they have made their way.

More than twenty centuries ago, Hippocrates set for the medical profession a standard of conduct based on loyalty generosity, uprighteousness, honor, and devotion to service. The standards have come down through the ages unchanged and unchangeable. They have been woven with the warp and woof that has made up the fabric of Freehold High School's 79 years of progress in educational values. I know that you are proud to have been a part of this long procession of graduates.

If life from now on for you and the world is to be liberal, progressive, and democratic, you must perpetuate these standards without fail!

Jenny Kissed Me!

. . . and she did! The audience breathes a sigh of relief as Frank Warner finally expresses his feeling for Mary Lamb.

PLAY CAST—SEATED: Mary Lou Dixon, Mary Lamb, Danella Clark, Lynn Lopatin, Simone Lewis, and Arline Gilmartin; STANDING: Della Woodfield, Marilyn Burdge, Robert Barkalow, Frank Warner, Charles Buscalia, James Ritter, Carol Arbachesky, and Ruth Williams.

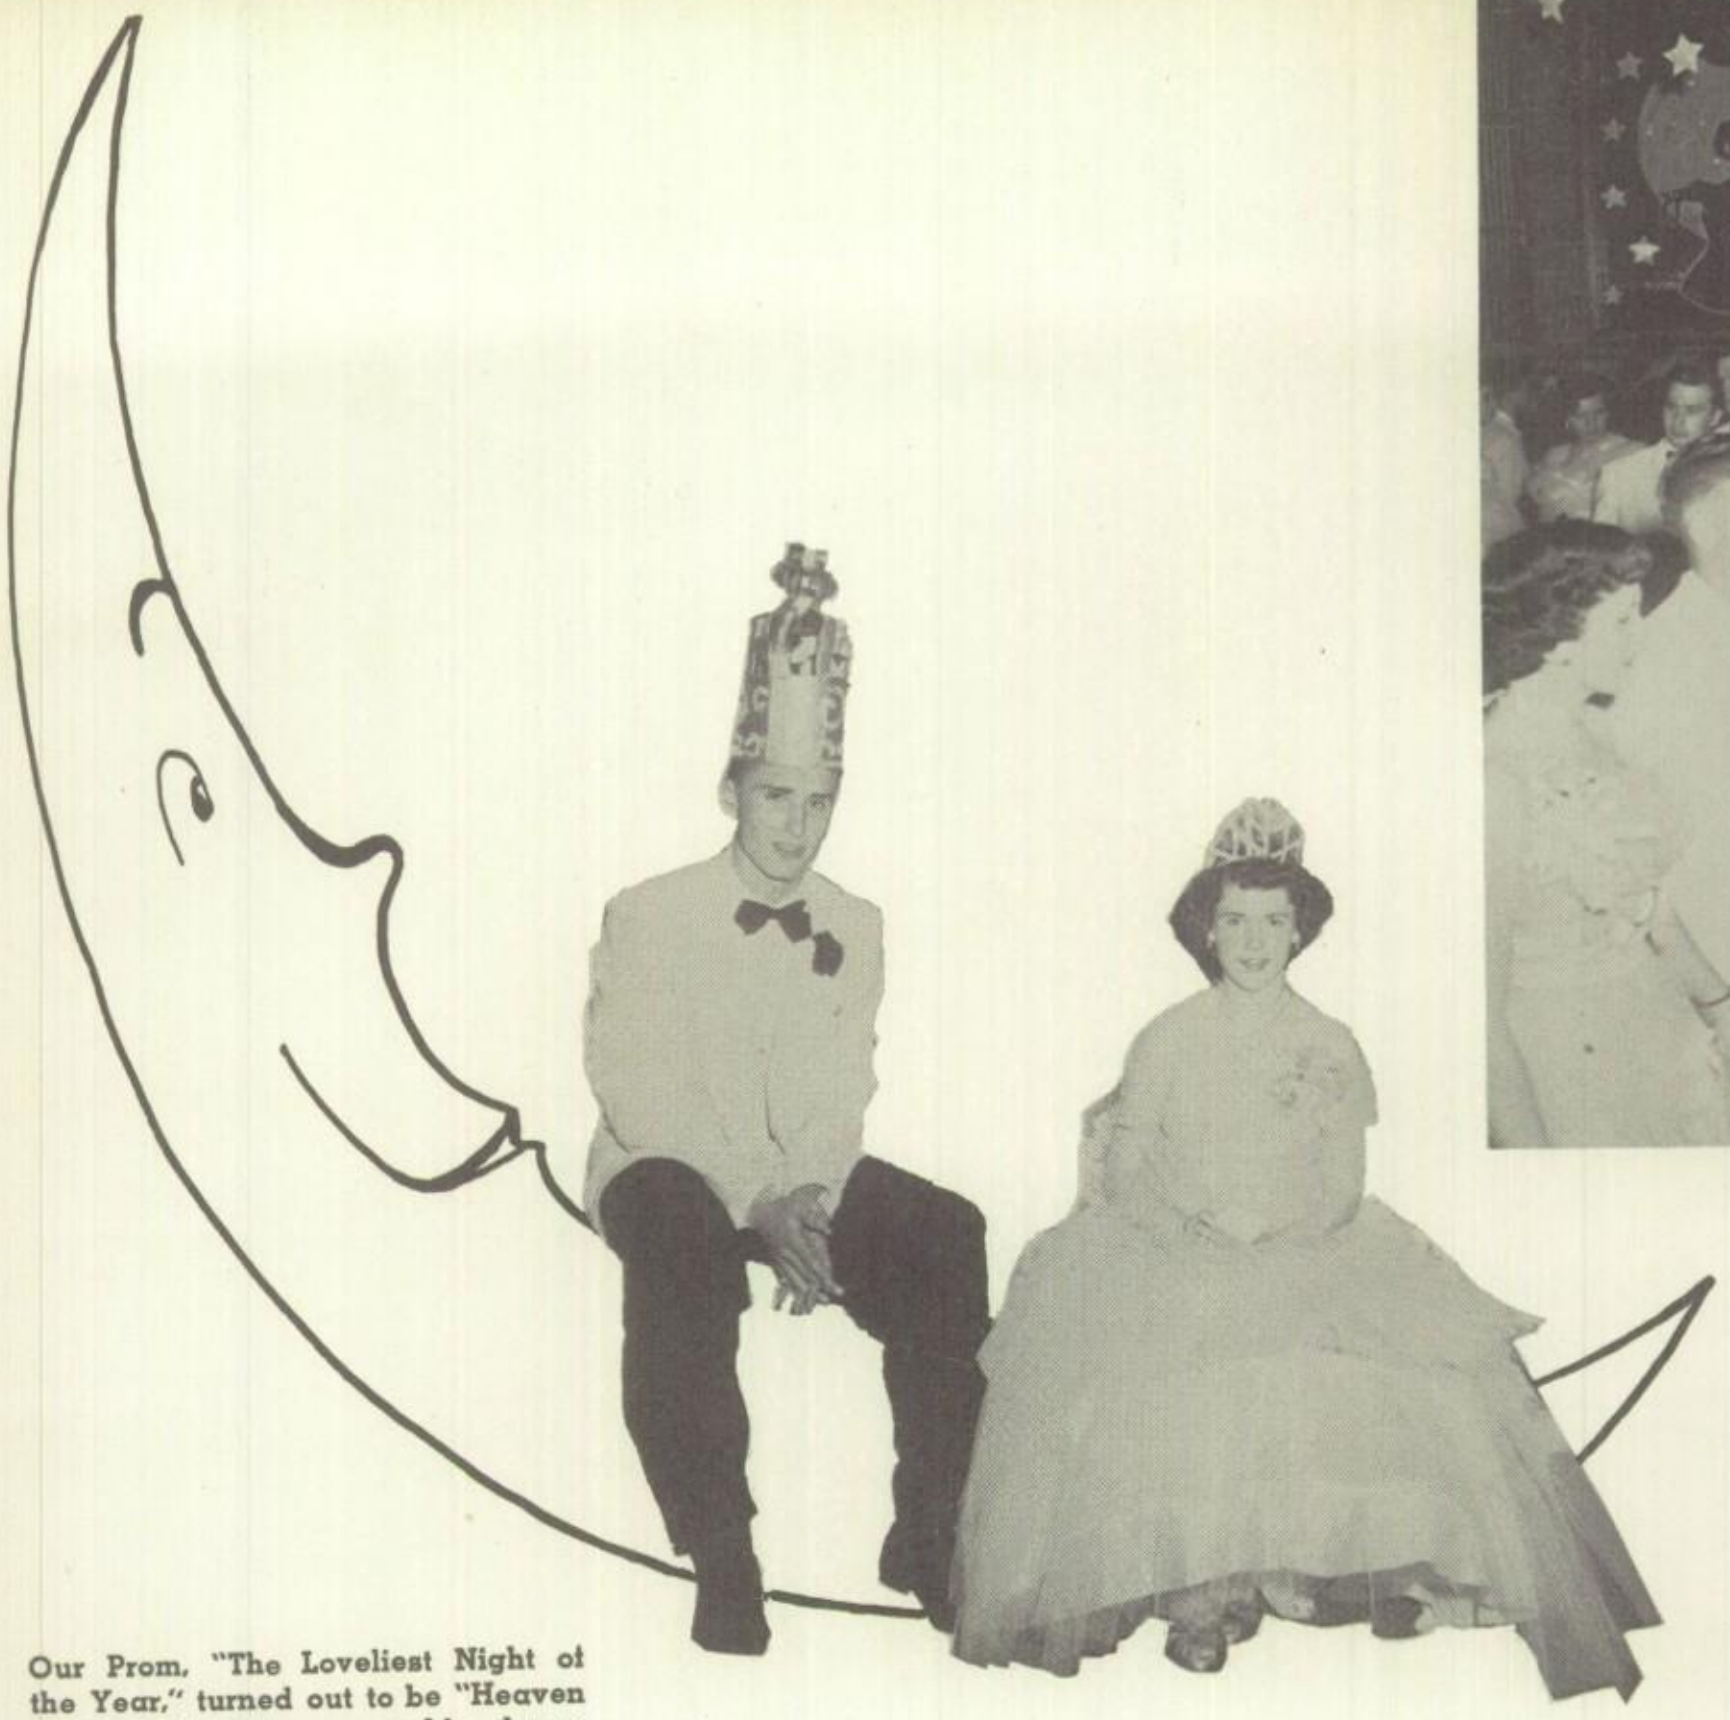
"But Father, being a girl shouldn't deprive one of the outdoors." . . . Ruth Williams, Mary Lou Dixon, and Marilyn Burdge are putting up a good argument as they try to convince James Ritter that they should be allowed to start a trail and camp club.

Jenny, a charming eighteen year old, was brought to live in the household of an elderly priest. She had been brought there by her aunt, the priest's housekeeper. Jenny is the opposite of the kind of smart sophisticated miss that puzzles and exasperates Father Maynihan. The plot is concerned with the priest's endeavors to make Jenny attractive to the boys by studying feminine magazines and getting pointers on feminine psychology and new fashions. He is so successful that he almost overplays his hand. A romance runs through the play, which ends in Jenny's engagement to an attractive "older man." He had been Jenny's choice from the first, and she only consented to go out with "Hep-cat," to make him jealous.

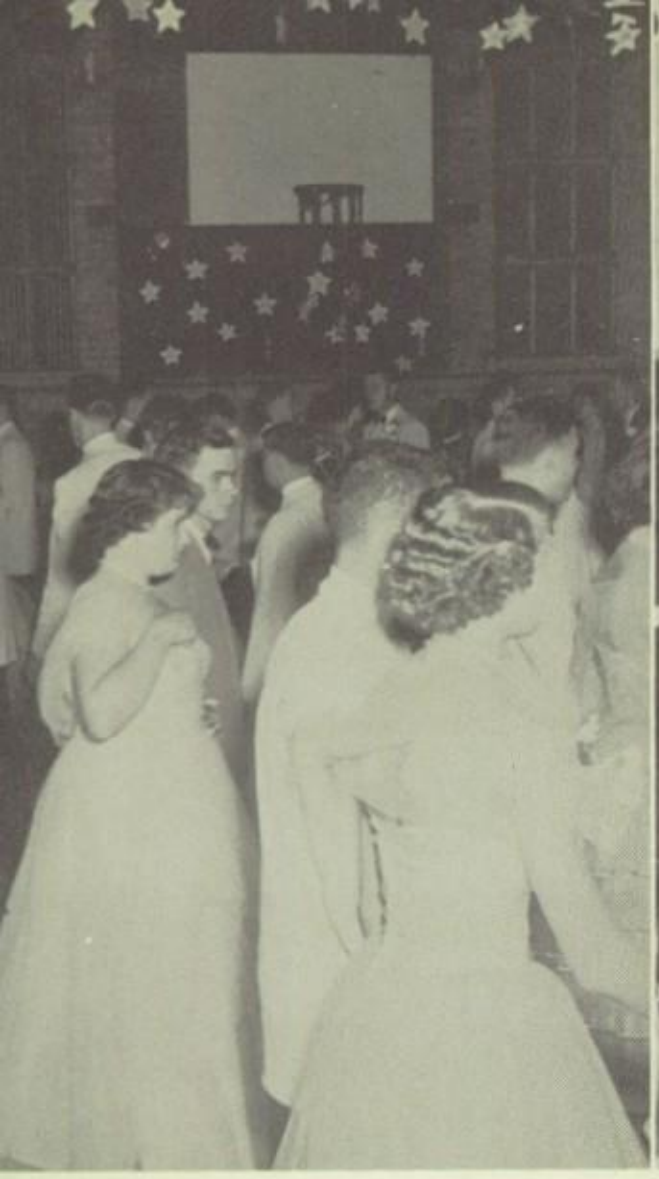
"Father, this is Jenny!" . . . This scene of introduction of Mary Lamb to James Ritter by Simone Lewis shows Mary just as she arrives at the rectory with her encyclopedias, luggage and, of course, her specially prepared box for her guppies. As the play progresses the unpleasant expressions change to jolly and interesting ones.

"You be careful of Jenny! I don't want my son to be going with a girl who is permitted to stay out so late . . . Charles Buscalia shakes a warning finger at Bob Barkalow who listens with an uninterested air.

"It snaps on very easily to the back of the skirt. It would be so simple to convert the uniforms." . . . Arline Gilmartin uses Della Woodfield to model her new version of a uniform which would be "hep."



Our Prom, "The Loveliest Night of the Year," turned out to be "Heaven on Earth." This memorable dance was highlighted with stars, flowers, gaiety, beauty, and music.



The Grand March . . . The seniors have hopeful looks on their faces, "Maybe I will be selected for King or Queen."

Reminiscing of their own prom days the faculty and guests watch the students whirl around the dance floor. The faculty not only enjoyed watching the dancers but also taking part in the festivities.

Loveliest Night of the Year

The most anticipated event of our junior year was the prom. In all its elegance it lived up to its theme, "The Loveliest Night of the Year."

Stars glistening overhead . . . a crystal pool sparkling in a bed of rocks . . . a backdrop picturing a moonlit balcony by a lakeside . . . these created an atmosphere of romance. The dancers were duplicated by life-sized silhouettes affixed to the windows. Amid all the enchantment of soft music and gaiety drifted an air of sophistication. The transformation was complete, and never will we forget this, our night of vernal splendor.

As the wee hours draw near everyone looks a little worn out.

Jeanne Barclay, Allen Baum, Betty Snook, Ruth Williams, Gail Larson, Joan Larson, Inez Brooks, made up the carolers that led the singing at the Christmas Dance.

Eager students await their turn as "Santa" presents Arline Gilmartin with an early Christmas gift.

In the Christmas Spirit

. . . Not the Congo line, the Bunny Hop.

Highlighting our senior year was a "Starlit Night." The annual Christmas dance was in perfect harmony with the season, characterized by laughter, dancing and song. Dominating the gym was a huge spruce, sparkling with tinsel and glowing with multi-colored lights. Beneath each of the four baskets hung glistening white bells concealing sprigs of mistletoe. The climax of the evening came with the entry of jolly old Saint Nicholas, complete with sleighbells, mistletoe, and a sock full of surprises. As the evening ended and the merry crowd dispersed, we agreed that this "Starlit Night" had been the gayest of the year.

. . . A panorama of terpsichorean activity as past and present high school students enjoy yuletide festivities in the gym.

With the beginning of School, work immediately began on "The Log of 1954," the last yearbook of Freehold High School. Capable co-editors and co-chairmen were chosen and the planning of "our" yearbook was started.

Out of the minds of the staff came our "guiding spirit," Father Colonial. In the pages of our yearbook he was to come to life and helped by giving both new and old ideas. One new idea was to have the title pages printed in color. All suggestions were hashed over, some being used and others rejected.

The staff worked hard and late to meet deadlines. There seemed to be a never-ending pile of typed sheets to be gone over, pictures to be chosen, and words to be edited: work, work, work!

The yearbook was finally completed and sent to press. What a relief when the final copy was put to bed! Everyone waited in nervous expectation to see "the" yearbook in print. The day finally came when the yearbooks arrived. All were glad to have spent so much time to make "The Log of 1954" a perfect memory of the last years of Freehold High School.

Student Government in Action

The Student Council, first organized here in the 1920's is an important organization in the functioning of Freehold High School. It is the object of the council to present to every student the opportunity to express his or her ideas for the improvement of the student body's governing program.

The Student Council tries to promote student responsibility, self-discipline, and school spirit. Through the joint endeavors of the council and the administration, students are better able to realize and expand their own capacities and abilities.

Each homeroom has a representative on the council. Regular meetings are held to review past accomplishments and to plan future activities. Some of the projects which the council sponsors are relaxation, assemblies, dances, the lost and found department, and the pencil machine.

Since the elections for membership and for the four offices are held in our traditional democratic fashion, this affords the students the opportunity to exercise the rights of petition, free speech, and suffrage which will prove invaluable to them as citizens in a free country.

For

Overheard at Girls' Nation—two executives in powwow—girl governor Lipski informs President Eisenhower of the "State of New Jersey" so he will have a better picture of the "state of the union."

Last year Freehold High School had the honor of having one of its Girls' State representatives elected girl governor of New Jersey. We are proud that it was a student from the class of 1954. Learning about our nation's government and how to be good citizens were the aim of the Girls' State, Boys' State, and Girls' Citizenship Institute. These were conferences to which representatives were sent from our school.

The cardinal principles of the National Honor Society are character, leadership, scholarship, and service. Members must possess these qualifications. This past year honors again went to the class of 1954 when from it were chosen the full 5% maximum number of students as members in this organization.

This year the Junior Red Cross Council ran its annual drive with a new purpose. The proceeds were used for the purpose of filling a chest with school supplies to be sent to foreign students.

The drive was successful and the chest was sent forth accordingly.

Jersey Boys' and Girls' States, sponsored by the American Legion and the Auxiliary, teach high school students how democratic government operates by giving them an opportunity to operate a state of their own. Parties are organized, conventions held, candidates nominated, heated political campaigns conducted, and governors of each state elected. Following the elections, the students operate the machinery of their democratic governments. Important public officials are speakers, and explain the workings of their governmental branches. From the left, are: Marilyn Burdge, Mary Lou Dixon, Eleanor Lipski, Edward Lipski, Larry Galcher, Jim Ritter.

Sincere Service

The Junior Red Cross Council is an elective body of the students, and through it the altruistic spirit of the school is made manifest. This year, for instance, two hundred dollars were donated to send a chest full of school supplies to needy foreign students. Another worthwhile project which the Council undertakes is the decorating of the Christmas tree at the Welfare Home. "I think this is the best team I have ever coached," said Harold Schank, varsity coach, "not only because of the tremendous ability of the players, but we had good depth and outstanding poise. Above all, I have never seen a club with the desire to play that this team had."

With their mentor thinking such of them, it is small wonder that the 1954 Colonials forged their way to victory, and gained outstanding recognition by going undefeated in nine starts to win the Shore Conference and Central Jersey Group II Championships.

Mayes, Stanford, Brodie, Lewis and Fowler received All-State honors, while the following gained All-Shore and All-Conference honors: Mayes, Lewis, Stanford, Fowler, Brodie, Lipski, Cook, and Freeman.

The post-war Shore Conference scoring record was set by Danny Lewis as he streaked across the goal line 20 times to score 120 points.

The Schankmen opened the season looking impressive as they downed Point Pleasant 25-0. The Colonials' second half touchdown splurge sent the battered Toms River Indians scurrying back to their reservation, the victims of a 20-0 Colonial onslaught. The speedy hard-hitting Blue and Gold gridders scored at will on the harried Atlantic Highlanders, as they vanquished the Tigers 26-0.

Jack Mayes led the Colonials to their fourth straight triumph as he marched 93 yards to pay dirt on the kickoff play. The Piners went home licking their wounds after a 37-0 shellacking. An inspired Blue and Gold squad snapped the 15 game winning streak of the Lions as they downed the Middletowners 13-7. Middletown was the first team to score on the Colonials.

—Defeat Lions, 13-7

An outclassed Red Bank eleven was the Colonials' sixth victim as the Blue and Golders whipped the Bucs 39-13. Danny Lewis, touchdown king, added another laurel to his crown as he racked up four touchdowns to make Freehold's victory a dazzling one.

A highly-touted Matawan eleven suffered defeat at the hands of the classy Freehold aggregation when the Colonials swamped the Huskies 47-0.

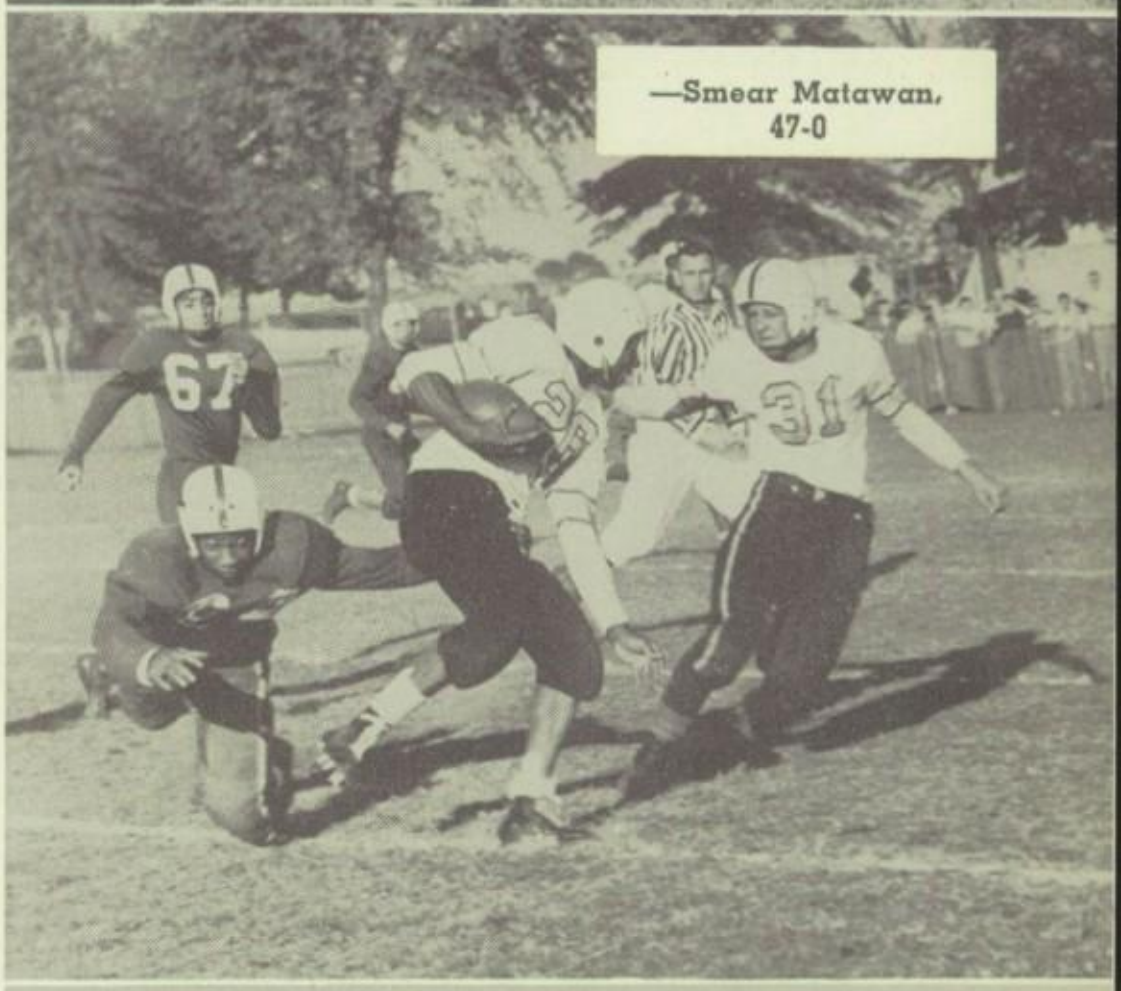
A valiant goal line stand by Freehold's stalwart line in the closing seconds of a nip and tuck game saved the day for Coach Hal Schank's charges as they dumped the Big Blue of Manasquan 13-6 for their eighth victory.

The Colonial juggernaut ripped Neptune, its ninth victim of the season, 28-0, before a record crowd at the traditional turkey-day tilt.

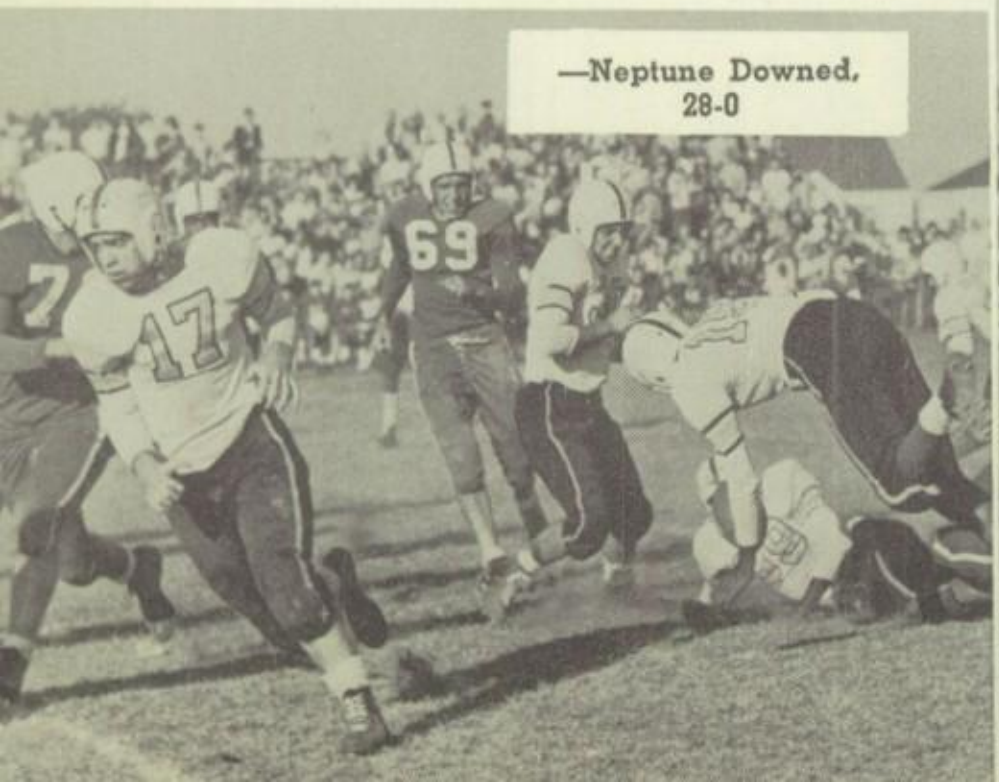
To terminate an honor-filled morning, the Colonials flaunted their laurels to the townspeople, as seated in convertibles, they formed a calvacade through the town. The usual victory parade by the band, majorettes and cheerleaders was highlighted by the exuberant football heroes and their coaches as the new conference champs rode in a triumphant march through Freehold.

In the nine-game schedule the Colonials piled up 248 points to 26 for the opposition. When the '54 footballers slaughtered Matawan 47-0, this was the highest score rolled up in one game by any team in the Shore Conference during the season.

—Smother Bucs, 39-13



—Smear Matawan, 47-0



—Neptune Downed, 28-0

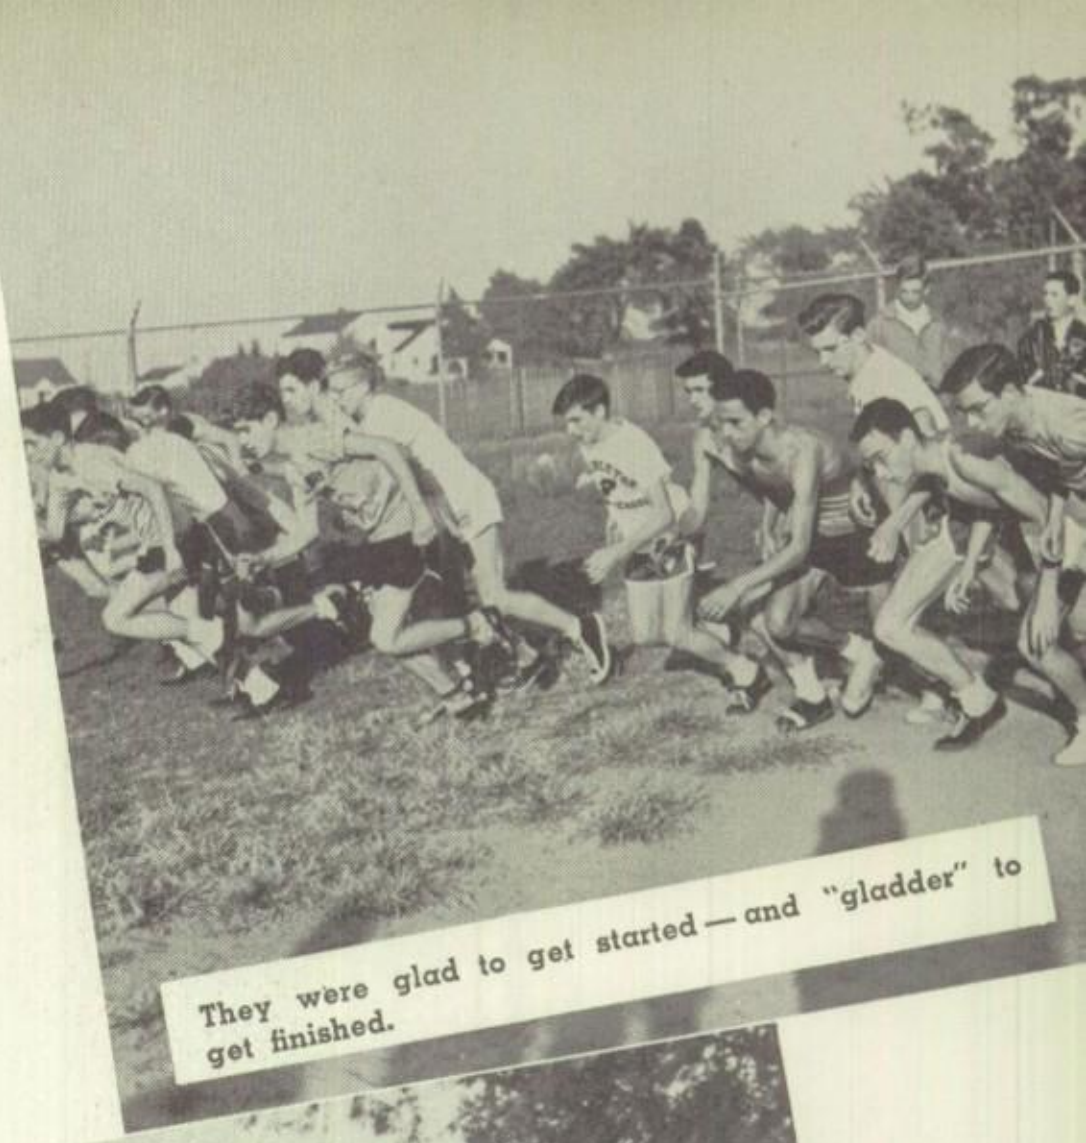
The 1953 cross country team was the most successful squad which Freehold High School has had in this sport since its inception here. Though not undefeated, it won three out of its four dual meets. With the winner having the low score, the Colonials defeated Peddie 16-39, edged Long Branch 24-31, swamped Red Bank 15-40, but lost to Toms River 33-32. In its triangular meet, Freehold did not win but finished in a tie for second place. The score was: Princeton 36, Freehold 42, and Asbury Park 42.

Due to bad weather, the Colonial harriers were not able to compete in the Central Jersey Championship meet. The first Central Jersey meet was won by Armando Merola of Freehold in 1948. Last fall was the first time Freehold did not participate.

Running in the State Meet's Division B, which was composed of Group I, II, and III schools, Freehold was fifteenth out of the twenty-four contending schools.

Coach Bennett anticipates having another creditable season in the coming fall, since several of the key lettermen are returning.



They were glad to get started — and "gladder" to get finished.

TRACK

This year's track team will have to be "on its toes" to approach the glowing record set by the '53 cinder crew. Last year's track team won all its meets, five dual and one triangular, to cop the Shore Conference Division A Championship and second place in Central Jersey Group II competition. In addition its relay teams took first place in the Penn Relays Class Mile for the third consecutive year, first place in the Shore Conference Mile, and second place in the Central Jersey Two Mile Relay.

Among the 40 individual champions in Shore Conference, Central Jersey, and State competition which Freehold has produced since 1946, three boys on this year's team were individual champions in Shore Conference and Central Jersey events last year. Dan Lewis won the Central Jersey 100 yard and 220 yard dashes. Walt Freeman won the Shore Conference 120 yard high hurdles. Charlie Parham tied for the Shore Conference pole vault mark.

These are the boys expected to be outstanding cindermen when that first revolver report is heard. From the left: Freeman, Mayes, Warner, Veselis, Reynolds, Lewis, Gutmann, and Evans.

Court

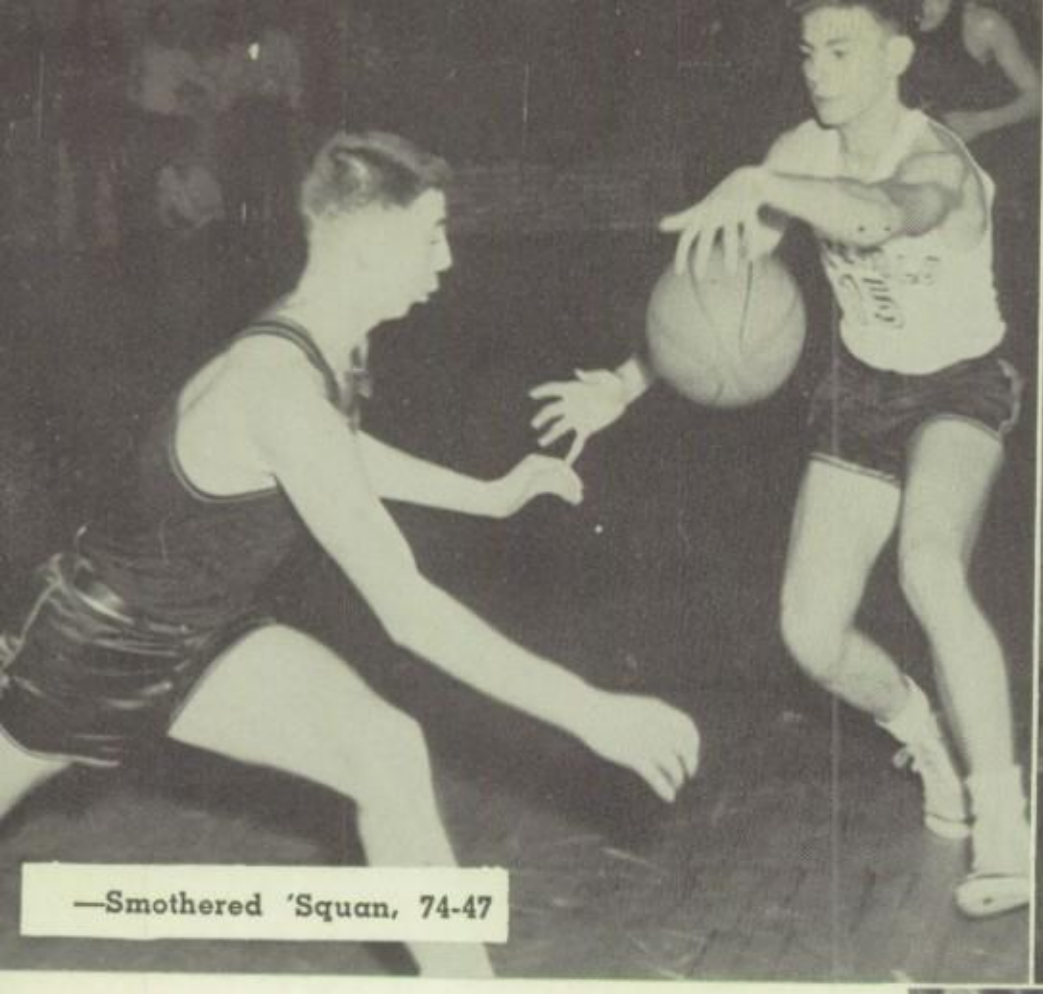
A scrappy Colonial quintet displaying spirit and determination sparked their way through a season of outstanding Shore Conference competition.

The season's games were highlighted, by, among other things, the fine playmaking of Ed Naughton on whose expert guarding depended many of the quintet's two-pointers. Walt Freeman s baskets rated him high among Shore Conference scorers. The defensive playing of Jack Mayes was responsible for calming the Colonials and leading them to victories. Returning basketeers Danny Lewis and Polly Stanford, playing offensively, racked up numerous two-pointers for the squad. Ed Ostrowski's lay-ups and sideline shots accounted for even more Colonial baskets.

The local cagers chalked up two wins before the season. Scoring a 63-52 victory over Keyport, the local boys played a hard and responsive game. During the Christmas holidays, the boys showed their elders, the graduates of past years, just how a really good team operates by defeating the Alumni 66-24. ,

Led by Walt Freeman's high scoring, the Colonials began their Conference competition by coming out on top in a close game with Red Bank which ended in a 50-49 Colonial victory.

The Freehold five downed their closest rivals, the Lakewood Piners, in both tilts they played with them.



—Smothered 'Squan, 74-47

—Trampled Leonardo, 71-40

Capers

The Colonials' expert playmaking resulted in a 66-37 triumph over the Piners. Back again to try to even the score, Lakewood returned home after a 68-53 trouncing.

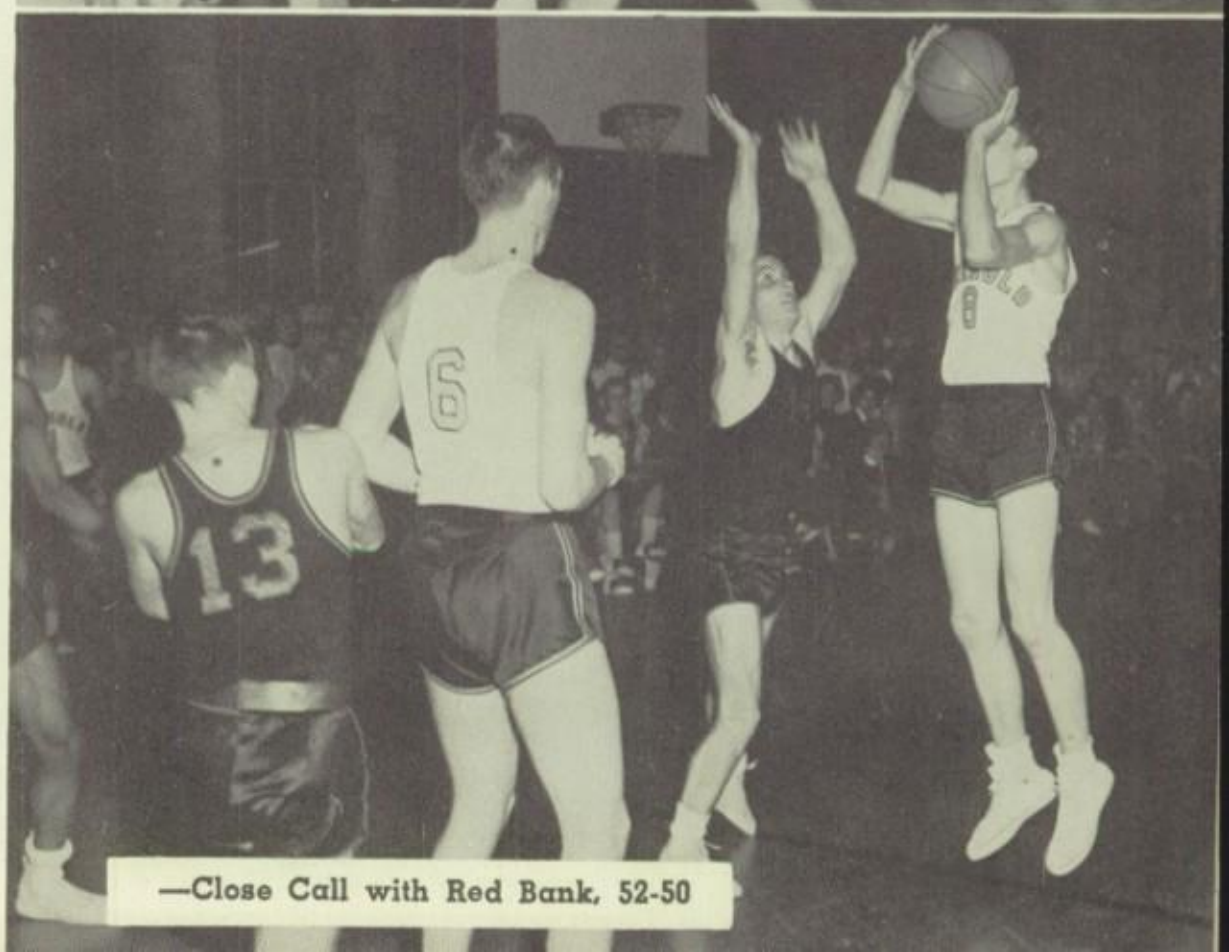
The Toms River Indians fell before the Freehold attack of lay-ups as the Colonial Cagers registered a 55-38 win. Returning to the battle with the idea of revenge, the Indians were robbed of their tomahawks again and sent back to their tepees with an 85-56 scalping.

The gym echoed with roars as the Leonard Lions arrived ready to display their prowess. They returned to their dens with clipped manes as they were defeated 71-40. They evened the score later when they met the Colonials again and came out on top 87-70.

Neptune's fast moving five handed Freehold two defeats, one 56-50 and the other 64-45. In a see-saw battle with Red Bank's Bucs, Freehold finished the game with a two point lead 52-50. The upset of the season was the Colonial's 74-47 victory over Manasquan's highly-rated Big Blue Cagers.

The Freehold quintet compiled an 8 win-5 loss record in Shore Conference competition. Though the Colonials were unsuccessful in their endeavors to capture the conference title this year, the quality of play and the scoring outcome permit them to hold their heads high among their cage competitors.

—Downed Toms River, 85-56



—Close Call with Red Bank, 52-50

BASEBALL

Lewis, Fowler, and Mayes are insurance that Freehold's baseballers won't be "diamonds in the rough."

"Baseball belongs to the extensive genius of civilized athletic competition, stemming from the primitive play-urge to whack a fragment of rock about the place with a club."

Coach Hal Schank, with a full group of veteran "whackers" returning, is looking forward to the warm breezes of spring to usher in the beloved words, "Play Ball!"

Last year's team racked up seven wins and six losses and placed fourth in Division A of the shore Conference. This year, with a number of returning lettermen, the outlook is bright. The boys on the mound are expected to carry the load.

In 1947 tennis was added to the spring varsity athletic program at Freehold High School. The players are and have been guided by Coach Edward Chmura.

Last year the team won two and lost five of its seven contests, a not too fruitful season. However, the netmen anticipate a different story come the close of the 1954 season. One of the major drawbacks has been the lack of sufficient court space. Since three courts are required for interscholastic competition, all matches must be played on an "away" basis.

Alan Pogarsky, Michael Leon, Sol Wagner, and Alan Montauk, seasoned veterans, are expected to be bolstering the squad this spring. In addition, an increase in enrollment, particularly among the freshmen, will undoubtedly bring forth many new prospects for the tennis squad.
